MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Bannerf

STAT

SUBJECT : Retirement Information Seminar

1. I reported to you yesterday that the first speaker, Dr. Leonard Nadler, was in my opinion not a very good introductory speaker. I must further report, however, that in talking to several people who heard Dr. Nadler I found that he had made a very favorable impression. I suppose that in something as personal as retirement counseling it would be impossible to find any unanimity of opinion.

2. Dr. Tietjen talked on Tuesday, 26 March and again, in my opinion, he was outstanding. The thrust of his remarks was that there is no medical information to indicate that age impairs the mental capacity of people and that post-retirement work must be satisfying to the individual if it is to maintain his mental and physical health. By satisfying, he allowed that every individual has his own personal needs for satisfaction and, therefore, the work could take any one of many directions. I thought that you might want to tell John that you had heard favorable comments on his presentation.
